For the Tribune. The Joy of the Bowl. BY E. W. R. CANNING. There is a sound that tells of joy; So rapturous its murmuring, Its seeming sweetness might employ

A seraph's string.

Ye'll hear it when the sparkling bowl Leaps with its rosy gladness high, In whose bright deepness sees the soul No danger nigh. Yet listen not-her treacherous wiles A Siren streweth darkly there; That chalice laughs with poisoned smiles;

Victim, beware! That sound may briefly quicken Hope; Bid Fancy mount a fleeter wing-But soon ye'll find that honeyed cup Conceals a sting!

Western Pennsylvania-Lands, Prospects, WARREN, Penn. Aug. 29, 1842 To the Editor of The Tribune:

Among your numerous and generally interesting correspondents, I notice one who hails from Franklin, Pa., on his way down the Allegany River, in the Water Witch. So far as he speaks of the country and things generally, from his own observation, I have nought to object; but when he speaks of the scenery on the Breakstraw Creek, in Warren county, by relating an anecdate of a certain speculation in land, he conveys an erroneous impression. There is, perhaps, no section of country in Western Pennsylvania more fertile than the valley of the Breakstraw Creek. There are farms on it, particularly Dr. Irvin's, that will vie in beauty and fertility with any on the German or Mohawk flats. At and about the head waters of some of its tributaries, there are large boulder rocks, covering, in detached parcels, from five to ten acres of land. The remainder of the tract is free from rocks, or nearly so; and is good available land. It was at one of these rocky places that Mr. S., the person spoken of by your correspondent, stood when he made the remark that it would never be settled till settled by an earth-

There may be other countries more inviting for emigrants than this. There doubtless are other countries to the far west, where the land is generally more productive, and, perhaps, more flourishing; but taking everything into view, I doubt whether an emigrant will do better than to come into this region. The character of the soil, climate and general face of the country, is much the same, as that of Cattarangus, southerly part of Chautauque, N. Y., and Erie, Crawford and Venango, Penn. The want of leading roads has heretofore prevented this county from being brought into notice. This difficulty is being overcome by a turnpike, which is nearly completed from War ren to Franklin, 50 miles. This opens a more direct and better route from Buffalo, Dunkirk or to Pittsburgh, than to go by Erie as heretofore. A turnpike is also completed from Warren to Bellmont, 105 miles. This opens a much more direct communication from Dunkirk, and indeed from all the country for 100 miles southerly and westerly, to Harrisburgh and Philadelphia, than any other route. The New York and Erie Rail Road crosses the Alleghany River ten miles from the line of Warren county, and twenty-eight from Warren Borough. This road when completed, and completed we think it must and will be, Loco-Foco counsel to the contrary notwithstanding, will enable us to visit your city in about twenty-four hours ride, do our business, and return in twenty-four

The increase of the population of this county from 1820 to 1830 exceeds that of any other county in the State, being over 140 per cent, and but little short of that from 1830 to 1840. There is yet plenty of new and unimproved land, to be got for from one dollar to four dollars per acre, according to quality and location. There is no section of country more healthy. The water is pure, and there are a hundred mill-sites, and other water privileges plenty, and easily obtained. As a whole, the county is peculiarly adapted to grazing. Good crops of most kinds of grain are raised. A small capital with enterprise and industry will ensure the immigrant a competence, and eventually wealth and independence. The lumber business has been and still is carried on to a great extent, but the principal article of export, Pine Timber, is becoming scarce and inconvenient to be got; when this is gone, our market must be to New-York by the New-York and Eric Railroad. Our hearts are with you and the Whigs in the stand you have taken for the completion of that work.

You will see by the proceedings of a meeting published in the 'People's Monitor,' last week, what the Whigs of Warren think of Capt. Tyler and his 'Veto and Ditto' Messages: also of Henry Yours truly,

A CHINESE WOMAN-CAGE.-We find in the London Shipping Gazette, the following description of a curiosity brought from the celestial Empire, and destined to be preserved in the British Museum. It is a cage in which Mrs. Noble was confined during a period of six weeks by the Chi-

"This specimen of Chinese receptacles for prisoners is constructed of as rude materials as those employed for packing crockery ware in this country, only stronger, the bars being about two inches broad, one inch and a half thick, and three inches apart from each other, put together in the roughest manner. The bottom is equally open as the sides, and it would appear the unfortunate prisoners who may have been confined in it must have entered at the top, the lid of which falls down like the lid of a chest. Close to a piece of wood which forms a joint, the lid, by being inserted in grooves at each side, is a nearly square aperture, to allow the head of the prisoner to project as far as the shoulders when cooped in this miserable construction. The dimensions of the cage inside are as follow: 2 feet 31 inches deep, by 1 foot 7 ins. wide, and 2 feet 10 inches long. The lid, when closed on prisoners, is held fast to the front by a rude piece of iron and common staples.' INTERESTING DISCOVERY .- On the last day of the recent meeting of the British Association, some extraordinary facts in the department of optics were communicated by Professor Bessel, which are even more remarkable than those disclosed by Daguerre, in his wonderful discovery in photography. We cannot better communicate these facts ourselves, than by giving simply the experiment of Professor Bessel.

A black plate, either of horn or agate, placed below a polished surface of silver, at a distance of one-twentieth of an inch, and remaining there for ten minutes, the latter receives an impression of figures, &c. engraved on the former, which may be rendered visible by exposing the silver place to vapor, either of water or mercury, &c. The image made by the camera obscura may be projected on any surface whatever, (glass, silver, a smooth book cover, &c.,) without any previous preparation; and these will produce effects of the same kind as those observed on a silver plate covered with iodine, (as in the process of Daguerreotype.) Vapors of different substances are of equal effect, without pretending that the effect will always be permanent. What is equally, if not still more remarkable is that this wonderful, secret and silent operation, takes place at midnight as well as at mid-day-in the dark as well as in the light. There, on the silver surface, the picture is to be called into sight by a breath! The image is evidently of the same character as that in photography, but produced without the aid of light, the material agent in that beautiful and extraordinary art. We can hardly credit the particulars of this discovery, opposed as it appears to the philosophical principles involved in the phenomena of photography; but we have stated the facts in the cuse briefly and plainly. The art has not yet received a name; Sir J. Herschell, however, suggests thermography: he also stated that he had obtained impressions of the heating end of the spectrum, beyond the extreme red ray. OCUMENT No. 13.—Board of Assistant Aldermen, July 29th, 1249 sistant Aldermen, July 29th, 1842.

Report of the Select Committee on the subject of Naylor & Rwbank's Patent Tinaed Lead Pipe, for the conveyance of the Croton Water. Presented by Mr. Scoles.

EDWARD WILLIAMS, Clerk.

The Select Committee, to which was referred the annexed

That in addition to the written statements presented, the following scientific gentlemen appeared before your Committee, and were examined by them upon the matters submitted to their consideration: Drs. Chilten, Ellet, Gale and Griscom. Your Committee have also personally inspected the process of tinning the pipes. The opinions of these gentlemen were very clearly and positively expressed: they agree in condemning the use of ordinary leaden pipes for the conveyance of water as dangerous to health, in consequence of the highly poisonous character of the white crust of oxidized lead which is thus produced. They consider the use of leaden pipes as mest dangerous when the water is remarkably pure. Dr. Ellet states that leaden pipes are used in the city of Edinburgh, where the water has certain mineral qualities that counteract the process of has certain mineral qualities that counteract the process oxidization. He experimented with the purest water while residing in South Carolina, and found such a tendency to oxidization as satisfied him of the danger of using leaden The Croton water is very pure, and therefore the leaden pipes ought by all means to be avoided.

use of leaden pipes ought by all means to be avoided.

Dr. Chilton recently inspected the Croton water drawn from the leaden pipes, by which it has been introduced into the house of a well-known merchant in Pearl-street in this city, and found the water evidently polluted by the lead. All these gentlemen agree that timing the inside of the pipes is an effectual protection. They also stated that it would be a protection, although some small portions of the lead should escape being covered—that the proximity of the tin would, from certain chemical causes, prevent oxidization of the lead. It further appears that the process of tinning strengthens the pipe, without diminishing its elasticity.

Messrs. Naylor & Ewbank inform your Committee that they are willing to furnish the Corporation of the City with their tinned leaden pipes, which are thus recommended by chemists of high reputation, at the same rate as the ordinary leaden pipes, the use of which they all unhesitatingly condemn. They would furnish them at from eight to nine cents per pound—in no case at more than nine cents per pound. From all the information obtained, and all the repound. From all the information obtained, and all the feel flection bestowed by your Committee, upon a subject of no little importance, as connected with the health and comfort of our citizens, your Committee have arrived at the following conclusions: That the use of the ordinary leaden pipes for the conveyance of water, particularly when as pure as the Croton, is decidedly dangerous, and therefore our ht to be avoided. The danger would be less where the pipes are applied in the programment and in daily use, and greater where be avoided. The danger would be less where the pipes are small in circumference and in daily use, and greater where there is more extent of surface, and they have been permitted to remain unused for any considerable space of time.—The internal coating of tin will be a secure pretestion against the oxidization of the lead. The tinned leaden pipes of the petitioners are altogether superior to the ordinary leaden pipes, and deserving of public patronage.—Your Committee therefore recommend that these tinned leaden pipes be adopted for the conveyance of the Croton water into the public buildings, in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings, in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings, in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings, in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings, in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings, in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings, in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings, in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings in preference to the ordinater into the public buildings in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordinater into the public building in preference to the ordina nto the public buildings, in preference to the ordina

Your Committee offer for the consideration of the Board he following resolution: Resolved, if the Board of Alderman concur, That the Joint Committee on the Croton Aqueduct be instructed to make use of Naylor & Ewbank's patent tinned leaden pipes for the conveyance of the Croton water into the public buildings, provided that the cost of the same shall not be creater, than that of any other species of since which is regreater than that of any other species of pipe where species of species of pipe where species of species with the same shall be considered as a species of species of species of species of the same shall be considered as a s

DOMAN EYE BALSAM, for Weak and Inflamed Eyes.—This Balsam is a prescription of one of the most celebrated oculists, has been a long time in use, and is confidently recommended to the public as the best and most successful salve ever used for inflammatory diseases of the eye. In cases where the cyclids are very much inflamed, or the ball of the eye thickly covered with blood, it operates almost like magic, and removes all appearance of disease after two or three applications.

In Dimness of Sight caused by fixed attention to minute objects, or by long exposure to a strong light, and in the objects, or by long exposure to a strong light, and in the weakness or partial loss of sight from sickness or old age, it is a sure restorer, and should be used by all who find their eyesight failing without any apparent disease.

This Balsam has restored sight in many instances where almost TOTAL BLINDNESS, caused by excessive inflammation, had existed for years.

Inflammation and soreness caused by blows, contusions, wounds on the eye, or by extraneous bodies of an irritating nature introduced under the eyelids, is very soon removed by the application of the Balsam. One trial will convince the most incredulous of its efficacy.

DARR'S LIFE PILLS .- It is impossible to calculate the many benefits to the human race which must result from the discovery of Old Parr's re-cipe. The fine herbal medicine which is compounded from its direction has, in thousands of cases, been tried and proved to be the most efficient remedy of the day. Nor is it confined in its usefulness to the diseases of the poor, for it is sought by, and found in the medicine chests of the nore wealthy classes of Great Britain and various parts of the continent of Europe.

As a family medicine it is unequalled, and is all powerful in removing bilious and other complaints arising from the derangement of the alimentary ducts, and in purifying the blood. It is certain in the cure of the more delicate complaints incident to females, grateful to the taste, aromatic to the smell, and at the same time so gentle in its operation, yet so efficacious, that no female ought to be without se ereat a boon, left them by its venerable discoverer, Old that the contents are designed as an advertisement. I know that the flattering testimonials which sprinkle the pages of the daily and weekly papers, in puffing some new nostrum, do so buriesque the science of medicine, and unfold the cupidity of the arch becromancer, who would palm off upon the public his new edition of old nostrums as his own invention—but which, were really invented in the good old leaden age of ignorance, long since exploded by the light of science—that they are calculated to set down any thing like a specific in the light of deception. But the pretended inventors of patent medicine of the present day deceive themselves by introducing a plausible, yet hypothetical theory, forcing by a fallacious rule the whole law of ceive themselves by introducing a plausible, yet hypothetical theory, forcing by a fallacious rule the whole law of physiology and essential nature into the narrow compass where but a few simples, by some hocus pocus and non-sensical ceremony, are at last found to wipe of the cuise of Adam—hail the jubilee, and sing, "O grave, where is thy victory? Oh, death, where is thy sting?" as they will tell of woodrous restorations, far and near, that the credulous are at once shocked to see the weekly returns of mortality.

at once shocked to see the weekly returns of mortality.

I had long since set down all specifies as unworthy of notice, till I happened to see the seemingly disinterested and unvarnished description of effects and facts, with day and dates, in a letter Mr. Redfield gave Dr. Thorp. There seemed to be no summing up of theoretical points, to make a case suit a medicine: but he described points, and related symptoms so parallel with my own case, that it at once struck me as the proper course to be pursued in advertising a medicine; that I determined to pursue the same; for if a medicine is really what it is said to be, it should be supported by corresponding evidence.

I am no medical man; I know not the modus operandi of Dr. Thorp's Carminantia; but this I do know,—that, where-

The leading circumstances and prominent symptoms were these—Last July I took a cold, which left me with a cough, and increased till it broke a blood vessel, and was reduced so much as to be confined to my bed. I was so reduced as to be dieted on arrow root. I was attended by three diplomatised physicians, under whose skilful treatment I was raised so much as to be able to attend to my business till October, when my hacking increased, and in November I was again compelled to take to my bed, and continued raising blood and pus till about the middle of March, when my physician in charge gave upmy case, as past cure. In this condition, expecting every day to leave this world, and a friend called, and handed my family the letter of Rev. Mr. Redfield, (in prixt) to Dr. Thorp, staring the warid, and a frend called, the prist) to Dr. Thorp, stating the effect of the Carminantia upon him, and describing the manner he was affected, which was so like my own. Again hope sprung up once more, and I determined to try the Carminania. I supposed myself beyond a cure, raising blood and pus every day; no appetite; very sore mouth and throat; pulse varying from 100 to 130; regular night sweats; very pulse varying trom to to 130; regular night sweats; very pulse varying trom to the site varying trom to machine the site varying trom to the site varying t copious and regular hectic every day; so much emaclated, that I could feel every bone in the external of my limbs, breathing very short and difficult; spit from half to a pint of My physician informed my family that if I had any business to settle, it should be attended to immediately. In the mean time my family procured a bottle of Mr. Thorp's Garminanthia. In the use of the first the soreness of my mouth was healed. I stopped using medicine; my night sweats abated; strength increased; was able to sit up a little; my appetite became quite voracious. In about five days I was taken with a severe coughing spell; threw off near one quart of matter, mixed with blood and fragments, or clumks of partly macerated pieces, somewhat resembling the lights or liver of a log, and nearly half a pint of large lumps, about the size of peas, shaped like a barley-corn, of whitish blue and lead colors; this was followed by a free discharge of very thin matter, so offensive as to make. My flesh began to make rapidly. I continued the use for eight wreeks, when I was again able to walk about a mile at a time with a little fatigue. I now weigh my usual weight, as in my bealthy days. I am very fleshy, and I believe I an indebted for my life to the Carminanta. It is a common observation that my recovery was a miracle.

To those who may be scrupulous, please to call at my resicence, No. 59 Grove-street, and I can adduce ample testimony of respectable witnesses, though my present appearance would seem to contradict the possibility that I am the identical man who, a few weeks ago, was expected to

I was discouraged in the use of the medicine, a number of times while using it, the ugh it had done me much good; but a return of the symptoms would eccasionally offer, such as weakness and a disposition to hectic. I was encouraged to continue by the good it had done me, and more particularly by the fact that Mr. R. spoke of the same; and now I have the fullest confidence that any persons affected as I was may be cured by this invaluable medicine.

I have not gone into all the details, such as chills, dyspepsia, liver complaint, and the like; for I do not suppose the they will consider it deserving their attention, till they get down so low as to be beyond cure by the usual medical treatment. As for myself, should I ever have a return of the first symptoms, I shall resort to this Carminantia.

NTOTICE TO THE PUBLIC .- The pub-It is respectfully reminded that among all the numerous inventions that have been introduced to the world for effectual and permanent cure of Chronic and Indianamatory Rheumatism, none has been found half so valuable, or so certain in its beneficial operations, as COHEN'S CELE. BRATED EMBROCATION. The proprietor, well knowing that no other remedy could be manufactured to equal this, has for a long time ceased to advertise it, during which period hundreds of the afflicted have applied for it, and used it successfully, after the utter failure of the common quack nostrums, which they have been induced to try. The proprietor desires now to inform the public that he has made an arrangement with A. B. & D.
